Personal Development

Implicit Bias in the Workplace; Internalized Bias in Ourselves

This presentation will examine the ways in which we, often unknowingly, make personal and professional decisions that reflect current biases. We will focus primarily on gender bias in the workplace, and also discuss how this intersects with larger cultural patterns that affect all aspects of our lives, such as structural racism. Finally, I will offer some resources for helping us all do better at combating our often invisible biases."

Special Guest Speaker: Jane Rago, PhD, is Director of Women's, Gender, & Sexuality Studies at the Armstrong Campus of Georgia Southern University.

Cost: Free

Where: Virtual event, Zoom information will be sent to those that register
